Foreword

Introducing the 1954 Hilltopper, a partial record of our school days for 1953-1954. May these people, places, and events pictured here always bring pleasant recollections of times spent together at Webster School.

Dedication

The Beta Club, sponsor of the yearbook, dedicates this issue of the Hilltopper to the seniors of '54.

To these may they always be true:
Their colors of white and blue,
Their flower, the iris, which won,
Their motto, "It can be done."

CLASS PROPHECY

I arrived in Sylva at six o'clock in the afternoon of May 6, 1959, picked up my traveling case and signaled a taxi. To my amazement, the driver was an old school chum of mine. I started asking questions about the graduates of '54--their whereabouts, what they did, if they were married, etc.

This is what I learned!

Charles Buchanan has a good job stating his opinion (you know he always did like to do that). He is now ambassador to Italy.

Mary Nell Hall, fresh out of college, is a home demonstration agent for Jackson County. She is residing with her parents at Greens Creek.

Dot Bryson's dream has come true. She joined the WAF and is stationed in Texas, (borders Mexico, you know) near a lot of handsome servicemen.

Ed Sumner owns a "Fix-It" shop in Sylva. He is married to a pretty girl and has two sets of twins.

Betty Cagle, who is married to a famous composer, is teaching dancing in New York City.

Mildred Cowan, Helen Woodard, and Kathleen Browning are joint owners of a fashionable dress shop in Washington, D. C.

Bobby Bumgarner, coach for the Yankees, says he's going to get married pretty soon and raise him a baseball team.

Boy, is Kenneth Parker really rolling in the dough! He is chief cook for a big logging camp in Darrington, Washington.

After co-starring in a picture with Victor Mature, Emma Lou Potts is now resting in Beverly Hill, Californis.

Carl Adams sits behind a desk with a sign that reads Editor of the Citizen Times.

Genevie Hall and her husband, both stars of the Grand Ole Opry, are visiting her parents here now.

Ray Bradley has taken over his daddy's packing house. He and JoAnn are parents of two children.

Harry Carpenter is just what his name implies, carpenter. He plans to start contracting soon.

Arilla McMahan is working as private secretary to her husband who is president of the Mead Corporation. They are living in Asheville.

Well, I never would have believed it, but Avery Loftis has turned religious and is pastor of Sylva Baptist Church. He has a wife and four darling kiddies.

Joyce Green is teaching home economics at Berea College in Kentucky.

After three unsuccessful marriages, Pauline Buchanan is trying her hand at writing. She has already sold two novels based on her own experiences.

Juanita Sims has earned fame as an interion decorator. She is now vacationing in Paris, but says she is returning to the States next month.

Verna Buchanan and her husband, who is a lawyer, have just returned from a European trip, which they won on a Double or Nothing Contest.

Jack Allison is Master of Ceremonies on the People Are Funny Show.

After being a nurse for three months, Audrey has decided it is time to say "yes." She and Kenneth Buchanan said the wedding vows yesterday.

Hazel says she's happy just to be married to Enoch, but she does try painting sometimes. She has sold one masterpiece.

Daniel Deitz is foreman on his job in a plywood mill. Rumors are that he may become "The Boss" pretty soon.

Wanda Blanton's face appears a lot on the covers of magazines. She is a professional model for a big advertising agency in New York.

According to the revelation of my old school chum the graduating class of '54 is making history and will be long remembered.
